

From federation to CARIFTA

The Caribbean has a common history, due to colonization and the plantation system. In the 1950's attempts were made to have a common government for the British Caribbean. Even though the British West Federation failed as countries sought to gain independence by themselves. Continuous attempts have been made by Caribbean government on an economic level as evidence by CARIFTA and CARICOM. Click Here for more information on the West Indies Federation.

Below are two slide shares that look at integration in the Caribbean.

<https://www.slideshare.net/egfred/regional-integration?ref=https://notesmaster.com/en/group/caribbean/1556-cape-covid19-support/24881-the-evolution-of-integration>

<https://www.slideshare.net/aniome/the-west-indian-federation?ref=https://notesmaster.com/en/group/caribbean/1556-cape-covid19-support/24881-the-evolution-of-integration>

Organizations such as the OECS, role is to promote sustainable economic development among smaller islands. Click Here for a more detailed analysis and activities of the OECS

While the ACS, is an organization that incorporates Spanish speaking territories in central america, and even countries such as Venezuela and Columbia. Click Here for a more information of the ACS.