

The importance of recommendations in a research paper

Recommendations are often based on the conclusions and give suggestions for future action based on the findings . They are often directed at stakeholders who have a direct say in policy making, such a government, companies or school administrators. It must be mentioned that these recommendations must be practical, in the sense that should not be impossible to implement .

The slide share and video below looks at conclusions and recommendations .The recommendations sections starts at slide 12.
